Grant of $10,000 Willed To College By Miss Gelwicks

A Potomac State alumna, the late Miss Pauline Gelwicks, of Keyser, has bequeathed according to terms of her will, the sum of $10,000 for establishment of a scholarship fund to assist deserving Mineral County students needing financial assistance to attend Potomac State College.

A 1909 alumna of Potomac State and a lifelong resident of Keyser, Miss Gelwicks provided for establishment of what will be known as the "John D. Gelwicks Memorial Scholarship Fund" in memory of her late father, a well known Keyser businessman.

In her will, Miss Gelwicks—bequeathed money for the fund to the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Keyser, trustee for the college in holding, managing, investing, and reinvesting the fund proceeds.

The incumbent president, or head of Potomac State, is to determine the number of students to be helped each year, and in what amount, and also to decide whether any part or all of the income should be used as matching funds for such programs as Director of Alumni Affairs.

Mr. Harris has stipulated that the scholarship bear the name of the late Dean Frank Mauzy who was one of his instructors during his days at Potomac State.

In addition to the scholarship, Harris has also asked that $50 be set aside annually as an award to the student with the highest scholastic average in history. This award is also to be given in memory of Dean Mauzy.

Summer Edition Not Published As Alumni Files Go To Computer

It had to happen, and it finally did. The age of the computer caught up with the Alumni office. If you missed your summer edition of the Alumni Newsletter, there was good reason—we didn't publish. The Alumni Office was busy making the changeover from manually typing 7,000 addresses to putting them on IBM cards with keypunch. Now we'll let the machines address your envelope and have more time to devote to the news.

Working on the project this summer were Mrs. Mary Evelyn Coffman, '36, Director of Alumni Affairs; Prof. Kenneth F. Haines '50, president of the Alumni Association; Miss Roberta F. Moreland, '69, former Student Aide in the Alumni Office; Prof. Edward Hartman, '63, Director of the Computer Center, as well as several student helpers.

Unfortunately the overseas addresses were too long for the computer program at present, and they are still typed. Also, some may receive a typed envelope from time to time which indicates an address change which has not yet been processed on the computer.

Some of you will note your class number next to your name. We hope to have everyone's class number in that slot eventually, and you could help us a lot if you were to mail it in to the Alumni Office.

Alumni Urged To Join Cat Club

Potomac State alumni who have long been interested in supporting the Catamount teams will be interested in knowing about the Cat Club, a booster's organization to promote inter-collegiate athletics and to help raise scholarship funds for athletes.

Included in the plans for this year are a Cat Day football game when Potomac State hosts the WVU Freshmen on November 6; a reserved seat section at all home games; and a "dutch treat" every Tuesday at noon when club members will review the previous Saturday's football game films with head coach Cecil Perkins.

All interested persons are welcome to join the Cat Club. Memberships can be sent to P. O. Box 365, Keyser.

Alumni Teachers Among Retirees Mineral County

Several Potomac State alumni who chose the field of education as their profession in later life were honored recently by their fellow teachers and staff co-workers upon retiring from the Mineral County School system.

Over 200 people turned out to honor S. T. McGee, '29, on his recent retirement as Superintendent of Schools after 16 years of service. However, McGee, who has 42 years as a teacher-educator in Mineral County schools, has accepted an appointment as principal at Piedmont High School.

Others who were retired this past spring were: James W. Goldsworthy, principal of Keyser High School; Ruth (Jackson) Goldsworthy, Mildred (Umstot) Sanders, Irene (Taylor) Raines, all of Keyser High School; William E. Wageley, Jr., Madaline Knott, Keyser Elementary; Irene (Welch) Oates and Bessie Arnold, Burlington; Rodney Baker, Piedmont; and Evelyn (Roe) Powell, Limestone.

Pasquino Marks 50th Year With Special Edition

The dual occasion of Potomac State's Golden Anniversary as a Junior College and the Pasquino's 50th year of publication was the basis of a beautiful 10-page anniversary issue of the campus newspaper in mid-March.

Planned by Dr. Elizabeth A. Atwater, faculty advisor; Dennis E. Morris, editor; and others of the Pasquino staff, the special issue devoted much space to alumni activities through articles and photographs of yesteryear.

Guest editorials were written by former editors Donald E. Hamill, 1921-22; John Byrd, 1941-42; and Mary Louise Miller, 1963-64.

Although concentrating primarily on the journalism department and Pasquino reports of the past, the special edition also gave much historical information and could certainly be regarded as a collector's item.

The Alumni Association regrets that computerizing of the address labels had not been completed so that each person on the mailing list could receive a copy of the Pasquino; however, hand addressing and preparing them for mailing was virtually an impossibility.

Officers of the Alumni Association, the Foundation, and the Newsletter Staff are grateful to the Pasquino staff for the space devoted to alumni activities and wishes for the students another glorious 50 years of outstanding publications.

Potomac State Alumna Is Honored As Virginia Teacher of the Year

A Potomac State alumna and native of Keyser, Mrs. Naoma (Taylor) Wilson '36, has been named Teacher of the Year for 1970 at Virginia Beach, Va.

A teacher of poor readers at the Virginia Beach Center for Effective Learning, Mrs. Wilson was selected from a group of nine candidates who were presented by individual schools within the system.

The selection was based on a number of teaching attributes and as one of her students remarked: "Mrs. Wilson really knows how to teach; she knows what she's doing."

"She works hard to get things for us when we really need things; she usually manages to succeed in getting these things."

In just one year of teaching 16 below-average readers with above-average intelligence, Mrs. Wilson has earned their respect and dramatically improved their reading habits. All of her students showed improvement, and two jumped four grades in reading ability in one year.

"It's almost unbelievable what those boys did," she said. "They knew they couldn't read, but they wanted to learn. I just assured them that they were good and that they could do it. And they did."

Mrs. Wilson is proud of her class' reading improvement, but she is even more pleased by the effect it has had on the students. "They came in here hating," she said. "Because they can't read, their whole lives are different, and they treat their classmates the same way they have been treated. But after a while they begin to get confidence and they begin to respect one another."

All of this was not accomplished by just teaching reading. Mrs. Wilson arranged for trips to Washington and to the museum in Norfolk. She helped the boys produce plays. She let the boys give a party and she helped them set up a workshop.

"She is courteous, helpful, kind and cheerful," one of the boys remarked. "She knows us like the palm of her hand and she can tell what we're going to do before we do it."

Mrs. Wilson's skills have been refined by 30 years' experience. A native of Keyser, she attended Potomac State College before receiving her B.A. degree from Shepherd College. She has completed graduate work at West Virginia University, the University of Virginia, and the College of William and Mary. She began her teaching career in Mineral County where she taught for 11 years and then went to teach in Alleghany County, Va., Montgomery County, Va., and to Virginia Beach in 1969.

She comes from an education-oriented family. Her mother was a teacher; her sister, Mrs. Irene Raines, is on the faculty at Keyser High School; and her husband, George, also a former teacher in

Alumnus Among 4 Airmen Held In Kidnap Incident

As the Alumni Newsletter went to press in the spring there was much concern being expressed over the fate of four U.S. airmen kidnapped outside of Ankara, Turkey, while driving to their barracks after work.

Anxiety on the local level was expressed primarily because one of the quartet was Airman 1C Larry J. Heavner, a 1968-69 commerce major at Potomac State College.

Heavner was released, however, in early March along with the other three airmen and later spent a 30-day leave at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heavner, near Maysville.

Held for five days by rebel students before being released, it was a touch-and-go international crisis, as there was no certainty the rebels would not carry out their threats of killing the victims unless a high ransom was paid.

Listed in the first releases as being from Denver, where his wife had been residing since he left last Dec. 27 for Ankara, the 20-year-old airman is a 1968 graduate of Petersburg High School.
